FOREWORD

Again the Edelian! In so brief a time has laggard September become fleet-footed June that it is hard to recall the rapidly passing activities. This year-book, then, so tritely and yet so endearingly termed a book of memories, records for us our pride in winning the city championship in football, our dismay and discomfort during the smallpox scare, our enjoyment of all the school parties and dances, and the final thrill of graduation and its accompanying pleasures. Many things lie ahead for all of us. Lest we forget, bits of the past are recorded in this Edelian which the Class of 1939 presents to all of us with a feeling of joy in achievement and an anticipation of great and happy dreams ahead!

JAMES McELWANE STERLING

DEDI

With sincerity, promptness, accuracy, and efficiency as the guiding motives in his professional career, James M. Sterling, the head of the Industrial Arts Department at Libbey High School has for eleven years labored to make his ideals and his work of great importance to us all. Born at Corunna, Michigan, he later moved to Toledo where he received his education, graduating from Old Central High School as president of his class. Many years later in the same building, Mr. Sterling was appointed to take charge of a shop that was being started in a special school for boys, and his services became so valuable that he was in time appointed Assistant Principal of Old Woodward High School. His outstanding contribution to Toledo's education system during this period was that he inaugurated the day vocational work, which has developed so widely since. Adequately prepared for his work by attendance at such colleges as the University of Toledo, the University of Wisconsin, Ohio State University, and the University of New York, Mr. Sterling has brought to our school the value of his preliminary training as grade school teacher of shop work and his many years of experience as principal of Night School at Libbey. Affectionately nicked-named "Mac" by his friends, Mr. Sterling is admired not only by his students in Machine Drawing, but by all who know him. Because of the splendid service he has given to Libbey and because of his very fine example of good citizenship and fine living the Senior Class of 1939 sincerely dedicates this Edelian to Mr. James McElwane Sterling, wishing him constant success and happiness throughout the years ahead.

SCENES

SUPERINTENDENT

There is an interesting meeting ahead for Libbey's departing seniors and their superintendent, Mr. E. L. Bowsher. When they leave the school wherein he has secured for them an effective and wisely controlled curriculum, they will enter upon a world made richer by his activities. Awaiting them within their communities, they will find courses in adult education, splendid recreational programs, and instructional forums, all attesting to his belief that progressive education is continued education. It is, therefore, with great respect and confidence that the senior class of Libbey High School salutes its chief.

HAROLD E. WILLIAMS

PRINCIPAL

For four years we have been guided by the finest person we know, our principal, Harold E. Williams. He has counseled us in our problems, encouraged us in our work, and joined us in our play. Now as we leave, we realize how much has meant to us his earnest example of always putting his best into his work and of converting enthusiastic planning into effective results. We realize, too, what a help to us has been his constant living up to the Christian ideals he so wisely taught us. May he always remember the Class of Nineteen Thirty-nine, as we shall him, with thoughts of deepest affection.

THE DEANS SPEAK

"Being adviser and dean of the seniors is work which I enjoy very much although it keeps me busy wondering what these precocious seniors will do next. I appreciate the fine work done by other deans, in preparing this exceptional group of boys and girls for their final year in high school. Graduation time always leaves me sad, but I am reconciled by the thought of the group which will be seniors next year."

EUGENE R. HUNT, Dean of Sr. Boys and Girls

"Many think of the dean as a disciplinarian, and of that alone. This angle of our work is a small part indeed. In fact the dean is apt to spend more time getting pupils out of trouble that he does getting them into it. If at the end of the day I can feel that I have made life a little brighter, the cross a little lighter, I then can draw a breath of pride and feel the day has been worth while after all."

ROLAND F. CONY, Dean of Jr. Boys and Girls

"My aim has been to make each girl a 'successful intellectual and social unit.' To accomplish this I try to study her and see not only her viewpoint but that of her teacher's as well. Among correct attiudes I aim to teach are that she ought to be honest always, to be on time, to be obedient, and above all to do each day the best she can. This year especially has been a very pleasant one as the freshmen girls have been friendly and courteous."

G. MAUDE BROWN, Dean of Freshmen Girls

"My task is to aid the girl to discover the art of healthful living so that she may have sufficient energy to do her work; to show her that the emotions of love, joy, and sorrow play a definite part in the scheme of living; to help her to become an efficient member of society at home, at work, and at play; to guide her to develop the true, the good, and the beautiful traits of character. This is my privilege as a dean"

ELOISE BOYCE VOORHEIS, Dean of Soph. Girls

"As a class dean, I should like to be considered by the pupils as a friend and counselor, rather than as a prosecutor or policeman. I would like to have more time to interview pupils, to know their problems, to help to iron out their troubles, and to adjust them to their surroundings. I should like to get acquainted with the good students as well as the poor and to try to help the many average pupils who are quiet and obedient and who never make themselves known by becoming disciplinary problems."

L. W. RUSIE, Dean of Soph. Boys

"This year it has been my job to help the freshmen boys follow some of those rules which are necessary for the successful operation of this school. I hope that every freshman boy has felt free to come to me with his problems and that my counseling has been helpful. I believe a word of encouragement and an explanation of how he can reach his goal may open the door through which many a ninth-grader may pass on to higher levels."

CHARLES W. WEINSTOCK, Dean of Freshmen Boys

THE DEPARTMENT HEADS SPEAK

"The science department is looking forward to courses better adjusted to the individuals in them. It hopes that the practical side of the work will be stressed and that individuals will be taught to reason rather than to memorize, and that more use will be made of the science books in the school library. Finally, it hopes that its graduates will use the knowledge gained in conserving Toledo's health, its beauty, and its resources."

FLORENCE A. GATES, Science Department

"Our aims are to give to the industrial student the instruction, based upon the practice and knowledge of tools, materials, and processes of industry that will prepare him for the specific occupation into which he will enter. We try to give instruction in as many fields as possible and to teach health and safety by practical application. In our work with the student our ultimate aim is to develop the highest type of citizenship through actual doing."

JAMES M. STERLING, Industrial Department

"We, the teachers of mathematics in Libbey High School are committed to the idea that there is something of value in the study of mathematics for everyone. We believe that this is true regardless of future vocational intentions of the pupils and that no one should leave high school without some mathematics. We believe changes in math courses should be made to fit the needs of pupils in a rapidly changing world. To this we bend our best efforts."

HERMAN A. HARDING, Mathematics Department

"We commercial teachers aim to develop in our students the ability to solve business problems; to help them discover ways of successfully adapting the information learned, the skill acquired, and their ideals to the problems they meet. We strive to help our students acquire an understanding of the meaning and value of those principles through their application to problem solving."

C. W. TOEPFER, Commercial Department

"The average political intelligence of the masses falls far below the average of a selected group of the most capable few. On the other hand the problems confronting government and the governmental machinery to cope with those problems grow increasingly difficult and complex. Can the political intelligence of the masses be raised rapidly as the problems grow more difficult? In a democracy it is the unique mission of the social studies to develop intelligence at the polls. More and better education is the great imperative of democracy."

R. C. BAKER, History Department

"The richest subject in the whole curriculum, perhaps, is English, but because of its wide range it is difficult both to comprehend and to teach, if one tries to include all of it. Our hope for the students of Libbey is that they receive from us a more accurate and gracious speech, an ability to write simply and well, a love of good reading, and a desire to understand and imitate the virtues which beautiful literature presents."

You are now casting your eyes upon the annual faculty Quiz-Bee—Information Please—Professor Q. —or what you will, of the Edelian staff of 1939. No cash awards, because you'll never guess the answers anyway. And no disputes as to the authenticity and veracity of these sticklers, either, for we got 'em from the teachers themselves in their own individual jargon and quaint handwriting systems. (No offense meant; we all do it!) This quizzical quiz concerns itself with the intelligentsia at Libbey High School; of course, the teachers! A few facts about their recent activities and their likes or dislikes (interesting and sometimes startling) will be given to you, and with these, you are to use your noodle and guess the person. Here we go! What intellectual about the school has gone completely wacky about Italian, goes into raptures when she (here's a hint) hears opera, and gives herself reading assignments with which even Will Shakespeare would struggle? What, you don't get it? It's Miss Dusha. Okay, try again . . . Did you ever see Tyrone Power? Well, one teacher in this building has. Ah! you have it! Miss Brown. That was too easy . . . Would you or would you not like to live right in the middle of the motion picture colony for a while? If you would, you're envious of one of our teachers. Undoubtedly, Miss DeLisle. So far so good! . . . This teacher was the co-director, raconteur, and author of the Toledo playground pageant, "Cinderella." Another factor. He was co-director of Toledo playgrounds and pools last summer. Mr. Everhart is your answer . . . One well known English teacher visited Gettysburg and took a trip through the Allegheny Mountains. That's right! Miss Gerdes . . . Miss Gosline went to summer school at Northwestern University— This time we'll try not to be so impetuous. What teacher divides her time between her pupils and her garden? Why, Miss Irwin, that genial person who is the friend of everyone . . . There are some teachers who like school so well that they want to go during the summer. We have never had any desire—anyhow, one teacher has been studying at the University of Michigan for three summers and soon expects to get a master's degree in French. Miss Krueger without doubt. So far so good! Who prepared an article on speech for the Open Book of the Kappa Phi Kappa Fraternity? If you don't get that, you're without hope! It's no one but Mr. Leiser . . . What personality worked on a thesis during 1937 and 1938 and then received a master's degree in '38? One more minute! No? Mrs. Burton . . .

Found! Two persons, and both of them from Libbey, who went to Canada and didn't even see the quintuplets! Who? Miss Coehrs and Miss Costigan . . .

Oh, another traveler! And this time the objective was Germany. That's too easy. You don't know? it's Miss Lok . . . End of round one! Now for the next test of your knowledge. Half credit for this round, for there is no additional information needed. just common sense . . . Miss May likes to study. Where? Well, Columbia suits her and other fortunate persons, especially with the World's Fair on . . .

Where would you go if you liked to see legitimate plays? The same place that Mrs. Mills does. To New York. Miss Payne went to New York also. Guess how she went. Said she, "I cast my bread upon the water and it came back with strawberry jam on it." A former pupil invited her as his guest to see New York for three weeks. Oh, for the life of such benevolent teachers! . . Ah, Mejico! Our charming Miss Russell is going there this summer . . . We've spilled the beans! . . . If you like good literature, you probably would enjoy the company of ? ? ? She's a freshman and sophomore English teacher. Miss Scott . . . Miss Swanson has really traveled! Know where? Well, she has been in Europe, to Florida, to six National Parks, in the East, to Canada, and points west . . . We have a real live composer in Libbey. His name? Mr. Holland.

What math teacher (we'll give you a clue) decided not to get a new suit because everyone likes his cream-colored one so well? Not hard, is it? Mr. Lynn, genial gentleman of geometric gymnastics . . . He of the thermos fame whom we know as the Don Pudge of Libbey is who? Yes, Mr. Spackey . . . If you've never spoken before a national convention you don't know the difficult job which ? ? ? did so well Also she went to Columbia and saw New York last summer, and her name is Miss Voorheis, testing officer and freshman dean of girls . . . One teacher is implicated in the eternal triangle; but it's not what you think, for Mr. Harding strikes a happy medium with his home life, teaching and athletic work . . . Pine trees and Mexico, these are his passions. (He's pretty fond of his youngsters too.) Mr. Houser is this gentleman's name . . . Who is our super-salesman of insurance and real estate? He's also good at collecting tickets for our afternoon shows. You seniors know—Mr. Hunt . . . Another tennis fiend! This time it's also someone who likes walking to school in the crispness of the morning air. The one and only maker of tests phenomenal, Mr. Baker . . . Who of our faculty made a speech before Michigan school teachers on "Education Should Emphasize the Social Development of the Pupil"? Sometimes he has been called Der Fuhrer's double and often the funniest man in Libbey; he also teaches French. Oo-lo-la! You don't know this one? Mr. Cony . . . Here's some more swell people. This time it's the lady who systemizes her classes so beautifully, Miss Eberth . . . One of our teachers made current events so interesting that students formed a club to study the subject under her supervision last summer. Her name? Miss Lutton . . . Who took a long leave during the second semester, and inspired her students to welcome her back with loud applause and shouts? Mrs. Rairdon, the Great Dane-owner and apple-lover . . . There is a president on our faculty. He is? Mr. Vander, and the

Another teacher who studies in the summer. But she took in Coney Island, too, (the one at Cincinnati). Mrs. Houser is the answer you want . . . A man who gained so much pep from a tonsilectomy that he went right home and dug a fruit cellar is our activities director, Mr. Martin . . . Another vacationer deluxe. He's been fishing and mountain climbing in Vermont, has Mr. Osgood . . . An honest-to-goodness deep sea fisherwoman, she sadly relates that it made her so seasick that she lost her taste for that sport. Now the 100% correct answer is Miss McGuire . . . Why, Miss Snow who spends part of her time in town at the Willard Hotel and the rest in the country and on rural life . . . Pack tripper, visitor of thirteen National Parks, and worker in the Progressive Education Workshop—this description fits none other than Miss Feller . . . Miss Henderson's latest travels took her where? To England and to Norway, thus increasing her knowledge of foreign lands . . . Where does Miss Waite go to recuperate from her devoting so much energy and time to making our her tests? To Mackinaw where it is cool, quiet, and restful, even in the summertime . . . Bet you can't guess who will be Coach Orwig's mascot in a few years. We think it will be his little daughter whose "L" is almost as big as she is now . . . Miss Bartley, whose picture does not appear here, is instructor of art. Libbey's newest comer, Mr. Hosler is not pictured either. Would you like to see the flowers in the South through a microscope? Well, one teacher is going to this summer—Miss Gates . . . What member of the Science Department was once a track coach at Libbey? Did we squeal, Mr. Archambo? Humor is the spice of life or something. In the light of this improvised quotation, one teacher gave us the following information: "A—professional—work on master's thesis—progress slight. B—health (1) fair, except a tonsilectomy. Let me tell you about my operation! (2) Dandruff and fallen arches about the same. (3) Survived several explosions caused by embryonic chemists." Mr. Boyle should be a writer . . . Can you imagine a person's playing tennis till she's stiff? There is one, Miss Fiedler . . . The paint and varnish man! Who? Mr. Hotchkiss. For a number of years he has been engaged in research along the aforementioned lines . . . He appears and disappears, passing from room to room —Mr. Lincke, of the big brown brief-case! . . . He took time off last summer to take a trip with Mr. Spackey and the faculty basketball team . . . but we know him as "Two-Point" Rusie . . . Libbey's newest bride, Miss Shafer. INDUSTRY

One of our teachers is interested in geneology—Mr. Sterling; maybe he'll fnd a Duke on his ancestral tree . . The three mystery men of Libbey High—Mr. Alexander, Mr. Fast, and Mr. Rosenberg—about whom the Edelian knows little, hears little, and doesn't see much . . . Yet we hear by the way that Mr. Fast likes to do cold-pack canning, and Mr. Rosenberg has the smallest appetite for a man of his energy that we have ever seen. We've often wondered whether our Mr. Alexander is related to the fellow who owned the famous Rag-time Band! Who is the candid camera representative at Libbey High? Snap! Mr. Dipman, who went to Ohio State last summer to study vocational guidance even after having his master's degree in '37 . . . He is president of the guidance section of the Ohio Educational Association; also, he's tops! Who? Mr. Packer . . . Congrats to the industrial arts teacher who received a scholarship to go to the Lincoln Electric Welding School—Mr. Lockwood . . . Another teacher wishing to increase his knowledge—this time at Western State Teachers' College — Mr. Plough . . . "Nothing interesting," says one of the teachers when we wanted information. (We think he's just modest.) His name? None other than Mr. Vogler.

HOME ECONOMICS

R. Lloyd
I. Owen
H. Wylie

. . . We have a teacher who went to Florida this winter. Although it was partly duty, she found time to purl one and drop two, did — Miss Lloyd . . . One of the new faculty cars, a shiny black one, belongs to Miss Owen . . . Michigan has attractions for the third home economics teacher to the extent that she traveled there last summer. Of course, she's Miss Wylie . . .

G. Holtz

OFFICE

Florida beckons to another Libbey person, one of the office staff. Besides enjoying the acquisition of sunburn, she is artistic and loves to cook. She is very efficient and has an excellent memory. We're sure you know her—Mrs. Sullivan . . . This lady is extremely fond of steak and mushrooms and loves hats (even those surrealistic constructions of this season?) Anyway, she is the one who occupies the helm when you go to buy texts from the book room. Mrs. Hartman . . . This answer is almost a dead giveaway, for we're sure you know this girl who went to Libbey several years ago. She loves anything in books, from S. S. VanDine to Mr. Shakespeare. When Mr. Williams wants stenographic work done, she answers to his call. This attractive, curly-headed young lady is——Miss Holtz . . .

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

N. Clayton
A. Jeffery
K. Maher
C. Robinson

Ah! Another bride, this one of the near future is our newest physical education teacher—— Miss (soon to be Mrs.) Clayton, who has traveled extensively throughout the United States. She saw the cinema world recently, threw snowballs in the middle of the summer on Pikes Peak, and took in our nation's capital. Also her sister was recently engaged to a cadet . . . Two expert golfers, one who likes sizzling steaks cooked in her backyard oven, and the other who likes to teach novices the art of swinging a racket at Jermain Park. You all know them both. That's a good clue to Miss Maher and Jeffery, isn't it? Along the line of golfing, Mr. Jeffery took care of a golf course at Ottawa Park last summer. Miss Maher (whose first consideration was to be a lady medico) went from one cottage to another visiting her many friends during her summer vacation. What? A man who likes to run a vacuum cleaner? Yes, indeed! And not in captivity either. This exceptional individual is Mr. Robinson, who also might have been a doctor had he not changed his mind . . .

HOME NURSING

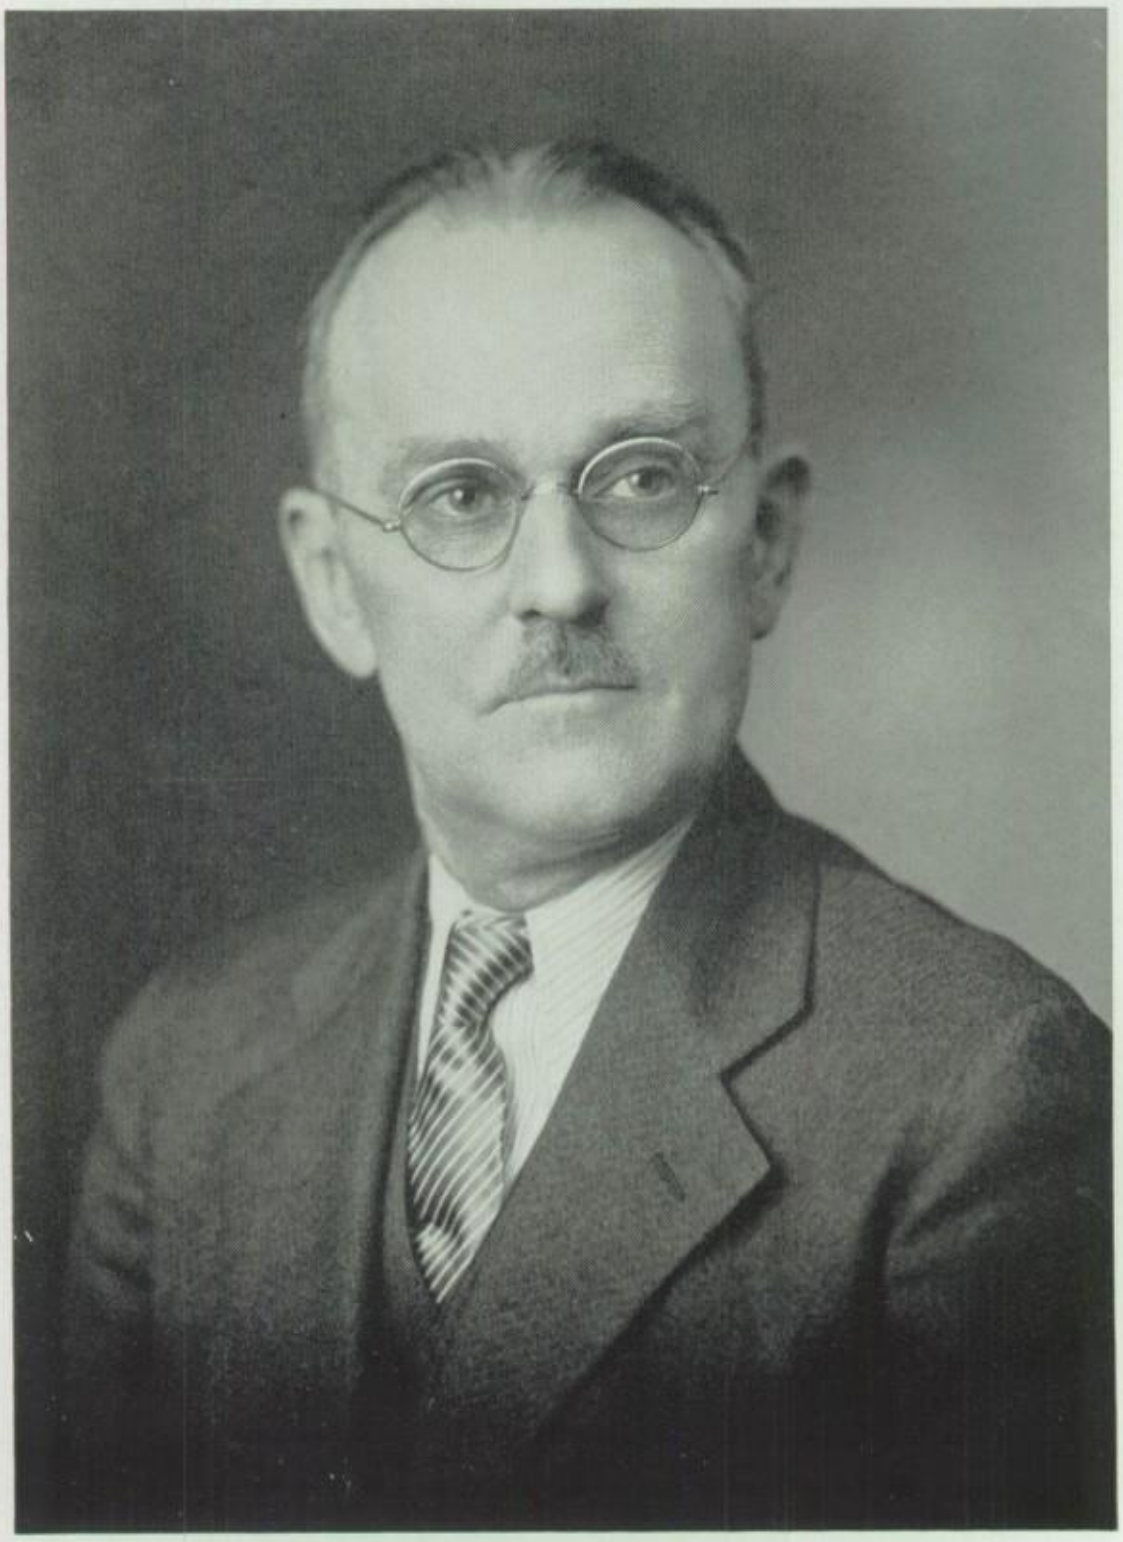
M. Kelso

What ho! A Vassar lady in our midst. Surprised? Well, here's some more information about her. She's recently moved into a new house. Isn't that grand? Her ideal is to make it possible for every boy and girl in Libbey High School to receive training from the health department. The answer is—— Miss Kelso, our school nurse . . .

LIBRARY

D. Kruse

Genial, kind and patient—these adjectives describe what well-liked tecaher? Our own Libbey librarian, Mrs. Kruse who is never too tired or too busy to help other people . . . This is the end of rounds one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, and ten. It's been sort of a hodge-podge, but we hope it's been fun.



JOSEPH W. SMITH

In Memoriam

Again last September death entered the ranks of our faculty, taking from us Joseph W. Smith, Dean of Sophomore Boys. Coming to Libbey at its opening in 1923, Mr. Smith, as dean of freshmen and later of sophomore boys, worked painstakingly and earnestly to bring out the good that he knew was in his young charges. In his class room he was an excellent teacher, well prepared, enthusiastic, and thorough. Our principal, Harold E. Williams has paid him a beautiful tribute, saying: "He was one of the most loyal souls I have ever known. His efficiency and grasp of detail were always a marvel. His friendship was real and earnest and true. No task was too great, no job was too difficult; no hours were too long if he could but serve. His death has taken away one of my truest, most devoted friends." It has been strange throughout the year not to see Mr. Smith and talk to him. Yet we have not forgotten him, for death can never take from our school the memory of one who was such a fine scholar and true gentleman.

THE WEAVER

Life weaves a pattern for living
With Duty, the warp, strongly bound
And Pleasure, the woof of gay colors,
Offsetting the sober background.

God has ordained that the weaver
Shall fashion each pattern so well
That Duty may not be forgotten
By Pleasure's enchanting spell.

In each pattern are days of hard striving
And trials that are heavy to bear,
Stern tasks that take effort and courage,
Great dreams that will urge us to dare.

And in perfect harmonious fashion
Come the light strands with laughter and song,
With ease and delightful contentment
That hasten our pattern along.

Life blends a pattern for living,
Strengthening Duty with Pleasure each day.
We dare not disturb her designing,
Lest she take her great gift away.

And at length when the pattern is finished,
By the touch of God's own hand,
We shall see then the warp and the woof of life,
Each a radiant, golden band.

VALEDICTORY

As we regretfully leave the beloved associations of Libbey High School, the wonder of the awful future strikes our minds. For what are we destined? Will we achieve greatly? Or will we remain "unknown, unhonored, and unsung"? Has high school been for us merely an end in itself, or will we utilize our years of training, friendship, and guidance as a means to a further end? To remain static is to regress. Has high school been our acme, our peak? No! But it has served its purpose, for it has provided for us a valuable and indispensable impetus from which we may reach any goal we desire. An interesting analogy may be drawn here. We behold the mammoth pick-a-back trans-Atlantic planes rise into the air, one colossus bearing the other upon its back until sufficient impetus and altitude have been gained. Then it releases a smaller, swifter plane to wing its way across the ocean to America. To us Libbey has been the starting force. We are that smaller plane unable to rise on our own power. But once we have risen into the air, we wing our way, strengthened by the force and momentum that has given us our start.

There is a beautiful and well-known poem from the Sanskrit called, "The Dawn," which says:

> "Listen to the exhortation of the dawn.
> Look well to this day, for it is life;
> In its brief course lie all the verities:
> The bliss of growth, the glory of action,
> And the splendor of beauty."

We have already tasted the joys of growing, of acquiring knowledge, of experiencing new thrills, of looking into the wonders of the microscope and the test tube. So shall we continue, perhaps in research, perhaps in direct contact with enthralling personalities, perhaps in encountering the really true growth of home life, the prime asset of our nation. On the athletic field, in the library, on the stage, we have seen the glories of action—physical, mental, emotional. Many of us have felt the joy of powerful motion, the satisfaction of recombining dull facts from books into new meanings, and the delight of submerging our own personalities to give life to characters of the printed script. Some will continue, perhaps as athletes; others, as scholars; others, actors. All will act vigorously in some fashion.

For all phases of life, we have been made ready, borne aloft, and given a flying start. For this preparation, we can thank our parents, our principal, Mr. Williams, and the faculty. All have been helpful, guiding us with a beneficent calm, and all have sacrificed much in order that we might have our education thus far. They will sacrifice more, much more, before we finally release ourselves from their support, and, as the lighter plane, fly higher and faster toward our ultimate goals. Tonight, leaving Libbey's corridors, retaining only memories, we give to our benefactors, parents, Mr. Williams, and the faculty, our solemn pledge to use, to the best of our ability, our whole beings, physical and mental, to make ourselves worthy as the product of their training. Any faults we may possess are ours, not theirs. We acknowledge them as the shapers of our future life, and promise to try to continue shaping that life into a finished, smooth, and perfect entirety.

EDELIAN

What a job! But after months of hard work when the book was finally finished, the editors received their reward—they saw the expressions of approval on the readers' faces. (Smile, please.)

Under Miss Dusha's direction and Mr. William's supervision the Edelian staff produced the year book of all year books, the Edelian of 1939. The staff was competently led by Arline Yaekel Editor-in-chief, and Ray Wilmer, Assistant Editor, who were assisted by Ila May Keiser, and Martha Durfee, Faculty Editors; Genevieve Wenzel and Ramona Knerr, Class Editors; Mary Lewis, Jeanne Warwick, and Dawn Baertschi, Club Editors; Emily Mocek and Mary Becker, Athletic Editors; and Dorothy Ansted and Dick Gleason, Snapshot Editors, who aided Miss Payne, Snapshot Adviser, in taking the various snaps scattered throughout the book. The skillful designing of the cover was the work of Orville Bauer, a student in the Architectural Department. The other well-drawn sketches of various scenes in the school were done by Richard Arnholt, Lorin Hardesty, Bill Lingel, John Spurgeon, and Nelson Musch, who are also students in this department. The finances of the Edelian were efficiently handled by Mr. Martin who was aided by Jane Ramsdell, Advertising Manager; Violet Jacoby, Circulation Manager; Anna Mae Jimison, Assistant Advertising Manager; Ethel Schneider, Assistant Circulation Manager; and Virginia Bangoff, Shirley Heinz, Norma Hemsoth, and Richard Cook, General Assistants.

CRYSTAL

With a nose for news, an eye at the keyhole, and an ear pressed to the ground, the Crystal reporters are constantly in a position to know all, see all, and hear all. The efficient staff of the past year has been composed of Orville Wollf, Editor-in-chief; Mary Helen Welch, Assistant Editor; Virginia Youngs and Betty Wallis, Feature Editors; Martha Sisson and Katherine Dreher, News Editors; Marian Will, Circulation and Exchange Editor; Marjorie Pierce and James Enyeart, Sports Editors; and Betty Bundt and Betsy Saalfield, Business Managers. Under the supervision of Miss Gerdes and Mr. Williams, these editors, together with the journalism students who are the reporters, publish the Crystal every two weeks. In order to be in the Crystal class one must have taken at least a year's work in basic journalism. This journalism class is open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors.

The activities of this publication group are many, three of the most important being publishing the Crystal bi-monthly; attending city-wide press meetings, one of which was held at Libbey in March and at which reporters from the other schools discussed means of improving their papers; and going to the annual convention at Macomber High School in April. Juniors have an opportunity to exhibit their training and ability when they put out their class issue of the Crystal for which juniors alone write and arrange the copy. The group has another very special work which is the publication of the senior issue of the Crystal. This issue is dedicated to the seniors and contains the class prophecy, class history, news about the seniors, and a summation of the year's activities.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service—these are the requirements for eligibility to the Honor Society of Libbey High School, one of the local chapters of the National Honor Society. According to the constitution of this national organization, a list is drawn up of the people whose scholarship makes them eligible for membership. After considering the various attributes of the candidates and deliberating as to whether or not the students can meet the other demands of the society, each teacher votes for the twelve people who he considers would make the finest members.

In February of this year a mass meeting was held at which, amid gasps of surprise and sighs of pleasure, seventy new members were inducted into the National Honor Society. Because this club is comparable to the Phi Betta Kappa of our universities, there are only ninety-seven in it, so that ten per cent of the senior class and five per cent of the junior class are elected each year. Students must be in the upper one-third of their class in order to be considered for membership.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The National Honor Society takes an active part in school affairs. At several meetings scholarships and colleges were discussed, and during the spring, speakers addressed the senior class on vocations and education. Earlier in the year the club held a roast at Side-cut Park featuring plenty of hot dogs and several home-made checker games. After the new members were inducted, another roast was given in their honor.

In collaboration with similar societies in other Toledo schools, our chapter held a National Honor banquet in order that the students might become better acquainted with those in the other clubs. Following the dinner, which was at Macomber Vocational High School, the young people enjoyed a nickelodeon dance in the same building. Mr. Hunt is adviser to the group; Charles Phillips was president during the first semester, and Harry Loehrke, throughout the second semester; Mary Becker was vice-president; and Ramona Knerr was secretary-treasurer. With these able officers, the society enjoyed a most creditable year; and they are confident that the juniors who will form the nucleus of next year's group will continue to carry on the high ideals of the National Honor Society.

LATIN-GERMAN

To gain admittance to the Latin Honor an "A" grade is necessary for two consecutive semesters, and thereafter, at least a "B". Each year this society sponsors a exhibit to which every Latin pupil must contribute. Also, a medal is presented at graduation to the most outstanding student of Latin. The popular skating party, the "Cherry Tree Roller Swing," was sponsored by this year's German Club under the supervision of Miss Lok, the club adviser. Earlier in the school year, the members attended a lecture at the Toledo Art Museum and the "World Traveler's Lecture" given by Mr. Dunham; a city-wide tea was given by Miss Lok's group along with the other high school German organizations. The officers appointed by Mrs. Burton, adviser to the Latin Honor, were as follows: President, Mary Becker; Vice-President, Anthony Pizza; and Secretary-treasurer, Jeanne Stevens. The German Club officers were Lisa Herrmann, President; William Heston, Vice-President; Vera Retzke, Corresponding Secretary; Janet Scharer, Recording Secretary; and Joe Scharer, Treasurer.

FRENCH-SPANISH

These two clubs may be found every other Monday traveling through foreign cities, or mumbling unintelligible syllables of plays. Le Cercle Francais was advised by Mademoiselle Krueger; and the officers were Joan Laub, President; Arline Yaekel, Vice-President; Charles Grau, Secretary; Betsy Saalfield, Treasurer; and Marjorie Pierce, Ruth Bengson, Ann Van Rynen, Arline Yaekel, Censors. The Tertulia Castellana was led by Pat Womeldorff, President; Mary Ellen Langenderfer, Vice-President; Harriett Parker, Secretary; Alice McDowell, Treasurer; Joyce Henerman, Sergeant-at-Arms; and Senorita Coehrs and Senorita Russell, Advisers. A memorable event was the Spanish initiation and Miss Russell's genuine Mexican chili. Both groups took part in the Carnival. The Spaniards made a success of the auction with Joyce Henerman as the amusing subastadore; while the French Club candy wheel tempted many passers-by. Again the clubs vied with one another in their skating parties which added to the school's enjoyment and to the societies' budgets. The year was concluded by each organization with a banquet in May.

Any early morning wanderer in the vicinity of the auditorium may hear sounds sweet, (or otherwise), issuing from therein. At the scene of action, Libbey's music master, Mr. Holland, may be heard muttering such admonitions as: "Tenors, open your mouths; altos, don't flat; sopranos, watch your books; tenors, sing!" However, in spite of all its trials and tribulations, the chorus comes through at the proper time with truly laudable performances. At Christmas time, Libbeyites were struck with the beauty and simplicity of the familiar carols, as sung in the main hall by the Glee Club, aided by the youthful voices from Walbridge Elementary School, and accompanied by the string quartet. On December 19, this group presented a Christmas program of real worth and beauty. On April 2 the student body heard Protheroe's beautiful sacred cantata, "Eastertide." As usual, the chorus took part in the annual May Festival, and Walbridge and Wayne Elementary Schools, Wayne Junior High School, and Broadway M. E. Church were upon different occasions entertained by the full chorus or by special groups from it.

ORCHESTRA AND BAND

Who is it that has been creating such extraordinarily listenable music at Libbey? Mr. Holland, of course, and his excellently trained orchestra and band. This capable conductor's desire to instill musical appreciation into Libbey students seems to have come to realization, for they all listen with rapt attention to the concerts given for them by the musical department. In order that many might have the enjoyment of hearing their work, during the year the band and orchestra have given several student concerts and an evening concert, and have also played at the annual Spring Festival of the Toledo High Schools' music departments. Color and enthusiasm were added to the football and basketball games by the gaiety and sprightly maneuvers of the band, while many mass meetings and auditorium meetings were improved not only by the band, but by the orchestra as well.

MUSIC AND DRAMATIC CLUBS

The Dramatic Club's members, directed by Miss Costigan, have been kept busy entertaining the school. Their first offering was "The Trysting Place"; on the same program was presented "Julius Caesar", a farce written by Richard Gail and Joe Sheehy. Next was a beautiful Christmas play, "Why The Chimes Rang". The season was closed with a rib-tickling Senior Play, "Big-Hearted Herbert". The group's officers were Ray Preski, President; John Colwell, Vice-President; Dorothy Brown, Corresponding Secretary; Annie Lee, Recording Secretary; Dick Gail, Treasurer. The Music Club's aim is to promote good music. Of their many programs, the finest was a concert by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, for which tickets were presented to the group by Mary Van Doren. Mr. Holland provided several programs. At the home of their adviser, Mrs. Mills, the members heard a radio concert and afterwards attended a roast. Remaining programs were given by the members themselves. The officers were Jim Simmons, President; Dawn Baertschi, Vice-President; Donna Cornell, Secretary; Peggy Pettit, Treasurer.

ACTIVITIES AND ALCHEMIST

Room 109 has been "on the map" of Libbey for a long time because of the business activities handled there. The work requires competent people; therefore, Herbert Ramsdell and Richard Cook were chosen to take care of the mimeograph and printing work; activities tickets were in charge of Lois Hemsoth and Shirley Heinz. Mr. Martin, head of the department, had Norma Hemsoth, Flo Luella Strayer, Ben Hartman, James Enyeart, and Herbert Kronefield as general assistants, while at all times Mr. Williams acted as general counsellor and supervisor. The Alchemist Society, which is interested in the effect of chemistry on our daily lives, had several speakers discuss subjects such as glass, liquid air, dental work, and health. Besides having two initiations, the club's interesting social activities consisted of a roast at Fort Meigs and a candy wheel at the carnival. The officers who worked with Mr. Vossler toward a successful year were the following: Fred Metzger, President; Bob Schneider, Vice-President; Edith Boone, Secretary; Jack Bremer, Treasurer; and Donald Bay, Sergeant-at-Arms.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

"That girl belongs to the Home Economics Club." "How can you tell?" "Why, by her pink sweater with the betty-lamp emblem, certainly." This well-known organization, advised by Miss Owen, Miss Wylie, and Miss Lloyd, had as its officers for the year Anita Koester, President; Margret Wenzel, Vice-President; Marillyn Douglas, Secretary; Bonnie Klein, Treasurer; and Shirley Arft, Reporter. One meeting a month was a business meeting and the next meeting was for entertainment. Besides these programs, the Home Economics Club held a roast for the purpose of becoming re-acquainted in the fall, an initiation banquet, and a mother's tea. In March, the Senior members together with all Seniors in the Home Economics department were invited to attend a tea sponsored by the Home Economics department at the University of Toledo. A formal banquet in May closed the club activities for the year. The purpose of this all-girls' organization is to stress co-operation and responsibility; and to foster this aim, credits were given for all work that members do. Each year the two girls who have the highest number of credits are sent to the State meeting. During the spring Marillyn Douglas and Alice Banachowski were representatives from Libbey at the state meeting at Columbus.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS CLUBS

Future builders whose aims will be to struggle with the intricacies of modern construction emerged at the year's end from both the Architectural and Engineering Clubs. The purpose of the Engineering Club is to stimulate friendships and to employ leisure time to the best advantage. Many trips were planned by the engineers including those to factories in Detroit and the Bunting Brass & Bronze in Toledo. The Architectural Club carried out a noteworthy program in the placement of graduate students in architecture. A bid for social recognition was made by the architects in the guise of the Architectural Amble. Heading the two clubs were unusually capable officers. Orville Bauer, President; John Spurgeon, Vice-President; Ed. Cumberworth, Secretary; Lorin Hardesty, Treasurer and Everett Pheils, Sergeant-at-Arms led the Architectural Club with Mr. Packer as adviser. Aiding Mr. Sterling, the adviser of the Engineering Club, were the following officers: Arthur Weber, President; Bill Wells, Vice-President; Rodney Glesser, Secretary; John Iwinski, Treasurer; and Harry Perrine, Sergeant-at-Arms.

BIOLOGY CLUB

Bugs don't frighten these biology students. They like such things so well that they have a club to further the study of this valuable subject which to others is often difficult and distasteful. Under the leadership of Virginia Thomas, President, the Biology Club started their year with a bang by giving a roast in the snappy October atmosphere. Later, in the December holiday season, all the members thoroughly enjoyed a Christmas party. In April, since skating seemed so popular, the group sponsored a peppy and profitable skating party at Memorial Hall. The members then turned to thoughts of farewell to seniors, and consequently closed the season with an excellent banquet which will be long remembered by graduating members. Even though the club has had many social affairs all through the year, movies, outside speakers, and talks by members of the group were given in order to give the audience an educational slant on their club work. The club has for its advisers Mr. Rusie and Miss Fiedler; besides the President, the officers serving were Vice-President, Mary Helen Welch; Secretary, Charlotte Roloff; Treasurer, Robert Freeman; and Sergeant-at-Arms, Ralph Reynolds.

COMMERCIAL CLUB

The business world of tomorrow will receive many valuable additions when Libbey's Commercial Club members join it. In September a roast was enjoyed by all; a Hallowe'en Party adorned the month of October; the Carnival "House of Horrors"—it really was a horror—was sponsored by them in December; a Valentine party and a splash party were held in February; and the March winds brought a trip to DeVilbiss High School and a fun-filled skating party at Memorial Hall. Their last activity was a spring formal banquet which ended a year in which this society took part in almost every type of entertainment. The capable leaders of the club were the President, Bill Olinger; Vice-President, Shirley Heinz; Secretary, Delores Gregor; Treasurer, Bob Downing; and Sergeant-at-Arms, Donald Spahr. An important factor in the success of this club was the guidance given by Mr. Toepfer and Mrs. Houser, advisers for several years and by Mr. Osgood who was appointed as an adviser this year. With these officers and advisers another successful year of achievement and fun has been added to the annals of the Commercial Club.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

During the season, any one who would venture near the vicinity of the stadium could have seen freshmen and sophomore girls vigorously engaged in games of soccer and field ball respectively, with junior and senior girls "rigged out" in new shin guards and flashy sticks playing field hockey near by. Basketball was in the spotlight during the winter season, with the "Lucky 8's", as a senior team, winning the coveted championship. As spring came with its intermittent sunshine and showers, volleyball and baseball joined the list of most popular sports. The girls also took time for many social events which included a skating party, a "Just fun" party, a roast at Ottawa Park, an after-school dance in the gym, an H_2O frolic at the Scott High pool, and the dart booth at the carnival. The meetings were presided over by Emily Mocek, the group President, with Miss Maher and Miss Clayton as Advisers. Lending their assistance were: Katherine Retzke, Vice-President; Dorothy Woods, Secretary; Virginia Bollenbacher,

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Treasurer, and many able committees. At the end of the year, a suptuous banquet was held at which new officers were installed and awards, such as numerals, letters, and chevrons, were given out. The aims of this fast-stepping club are those of improving the body and mind, and of making better use of leisure time. Each member is required to keep a health card, one for each season, on which her daily activities are recorded in detail. A witness to the number of girls who give of their time to attend the many sport and social events would say that the Girls' Athletic Association has succeeded in arranging a grand and "Sporty" way of using their leisure time. The advisers, Miss Maher and Miss Clayton, are to be congratulated for their splendid effort in supervising the girls and arranging the tournaments. Their first efforts at the picnic proved to be "loads of fun", and the question of who put the onions in the fire remains unanswered. Thus the "she athletes" of Libbey closed another year.

SENIOR FRIENDSHIP CLUB

When more enthusiastic clubs are organized, Miss Payne will organize them with her cheerful pleasantness and her willingness to tackle the well-nigh impossible. Small wonder then if under her guidance, the Senior Friendship Club flourished and maintained its high standards throughout the past year. With its aim of helping girls to understand one another and create for themselves a Christian standard of living, the club worked and played under the direction of these officers: Lois Hemsoth, President; Edith Boone, Vice-President; Mary Anne Watson, Secretary; Ruth Kulow, Treasurer; Irene Taylor, Chaplain. In the fall, honoring the mothers of the Libbey's championship football team, the girls planned and really cooked a dinner and also prepared an excellent program. Not forgetting the orphans they had adopted last year, this group sent them books and games at Christmas and gave them a Valentine Party in February. To augment their treasury, they frequently sold candy. With the other Friendship Clubs of the school, they enjoyed a mother's tea with Mr. Holland as guest speaker.

SENIOR HI-Y

With its triune conception of the ideal boy, the Senior Hi-Y Club has striven with its usual successful results to encourage the physical, mental, and spiritual development of each of its members. Leading these boys, Libbey's principal, Mr. Williams, assisted by Ivan Smith of the South Side Y, worked hard during the year to make the society function as a Christian organization in both the school and the community. The program of the year included a splendid series of vocational talks with such speakers as Mrs. Rusted of the Vocational Guidance Bureau, Mr. Schmidt of the Woolson Spice Company, and Dean Carter of Toledo University. Of different value but of equal interest were reports given by Bob French, Dr. Miller, and Mr. Radabaugh, the general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. With the Mothers' and Sons' banquet as the culminating event in May the year's work closed for the Senior Hi-Y and its officers: Harry Loehrke, President; Harry Perrine, Vice-President; James Tracy, Treasurer; Joseph Scharer, Secretary; Charles Phillips, Sergeant-at-Arms, all of whom had served the club efficiently and well.

SENIOR FRIENDSHIP AND JUNIOR HI-Y

Because of their similarity of aims the Friendship and the Hi-Y Clubs united often during the year to exchange opinions, enjoy parties, or conduct forums. Starting with a breakfast in early fall, the boys and girls continued their programs of co-operation that were especially successful in the series of Sunday forums held at the Y. M. C. A. to discuss the social and moral problems of high school youths. The Hi-Y boys then entertained the Friendship girls at an evening dance held in the gym and restricted to Libbey members of the Hi-Y and Friendship Clubs. Two other interesting programs were provided by a group of Friendship Club girls who spoke to the Hi-Y Club on "The Ideal Boy", and a group of Hi-Y boys who spoke to the Friendship Club on "The Ideal Girl." A spirited discussion was the result of each of these meetings. At the Easter season both groups presented in the school auditorium "Nason, the Blind Disciple", the cast of which included John Colwell, Lois Hemsoth, Eldora Harp, Dorothy Ansted, Jack Bremer, Brandon Neal, and Tom Connin.

JUNIOR FRIENDSHIP

One hundred and sixteen members may seem a large organization to some, but not to the Junior Friendship Club, headed by Miss Brown, Adviser; Sally Schwartz, President; Marion Scharer, Vice-President; Elinor Retzke, Chaplain; Jeanne Stevens, Secretary; Marjorie Francis, Treasurer; and Katherine Retzke, Social Chairman. The Junior Friendship girls entertained a large part of the feminine portion of the student body at their annual Co-ed Ball in October. Complying with their usual plan of giving each member the name of an orphan to be entertained by her throughout the year, the Juniors gave presents to their young friends at Christmas, and a party for them in April. Several speakers addressed the club. Among them were Mrs. Frost, who discussed international fellowship in the Y. W. C. A.; Mrs. Boycheff, who told of life in Macedonia, her native land; and Mrs. Price, who talked on labor week and vocations. Programs of a more active nature were represented during the year by a roller skating party in the Y. W. C. A.; a party given in March for the sophomore club, and a refreshing hike in the buoyant spring air of May.

JUNIOR HI-Y AND FRIENDSHIP

During 1939 a new policy was adopted by the Hi-Y groups of Libbey to the effect that the sophomore boys should form a part of the Junior Hi-Y Club rather than an independent unit. Thus in November when the young aspirants were inducted they met the officers of the Junior Hi-Y: President, Donald Lampe; Vice-President, Brandon Neal; Secretary, Phillip Luetke; Treasurer, David Werner; Sergeant-at-Arms, Ed Weber. With the help of the principal, Mr. Williams, and of Mr. Leiser, and Mr. Spackey, the members were trained in all the ideals of the club and participated in the meetings of the Senior Hi-Y.

LOYAL LIBBEY LAWSONITES

Instituted only last year in commemoration of Mr. George Lawson, a former Libbey teacher, this lively organization, with Miss Payne as its adviser, has been fast gaining prominence in the school. This year the officers were Paul Campbell, President; Charles Klippstein, Vice-President; Richard Gail, Secretary; Richard Connin, Treasurer; and Warren Schmakel, Sergeant-at-Arms. At several meetings during the year, speakers were invited to talk to the members. Mr. Dipman suggested the hobby of photography, and Mr. Packer advised the boys about vocations. The whole outfit trekked up to Greenfield Village one brisk wintry day to survey the vast museum and the many famous old land-sights that have been restored there; and when Carnival-time came, the Loyal Libbey Lawsonites came through with an uproariously entertaining vaudeville show. The St. Patrick's Day Dance given by these boys was also a great success. Besides dancing for the guests, chaperones were supplied with checkers; and punch —the height of the party—was provided for everyone. Although these boys have had a lot of fun, yet they have also had a more serious purpose, for the aim of the society was to "Do service for others."

SOPHOMORE FRIENDSHIP

This organization, under the able direction of Miss Irwin, one-half of the Sophomore Friendship Club chose as its praiseworthy aim, "To develop a friendlier spirit among girls". The themes of their various programs and their pleasurable activities were devoted to this purpose. Outside speakers, including Miss Herler who is one of the well-known promoters of youth membership in the Y. W. C. A., chose this fine aim as their subject. The girls, in order to promote a friendly spirit among themselves, held a hilarious splash party and a whiz of a roller-skating party, both at the Y. W. C. A. Then at one of their meetings they enjoyed a lively discussion with a group of Hi-Y boys. Displaying the true spirit of the Friendship girls, they adopted a group of orphans at the Miami Children's Home and provided them with presents, cards, and other simple pleasures throughout the year. Guilding this worthwhile group were the following officers: Betty Hudson, President; Earlene Sworde, Vice-President; Delores Gartz, Secretary; Delorous Cole, Treasurer; and Lois Campbell, Chaplain.

SOPHOMORE FRIENDSHIP

Advised by Miss Gosline, this half of the club, which is divided in numbers but not in purpose, chose as its aim, "To encourage clean living and the living of better lives." By its selection of speakers and activities this group succeeded admirably in furthering its aspirations. Miss Kelly, the librarian from Toledo Heights Library, who was one of the outside speakers, discussed "Good Books" with the girls and made many suggestions to them concerning the enrichment of their literary experiences. A frolicsome splash party and an appetizing pot luck supper at the Y. W. C. A. offered good clean fun for the members of the group. The Sophomore Friendship Spring Swing held in the gym one April afternoon was a great success. During several of their meetings the girls sang camp songs. Their sweaters were chosen in conjunction with the girls of Miss Irwin's group; and their Mothers' Tea was also held with the other Friendship Clubs. The presiding officers were President, Mary Masters; Vice-President, Lucy Holliger; Secretary, Juanita Ramsey; Treasurer, Marilyn Ruch; and Chaplain, Barbara Lawrence.

PERIES

From the roast in the fall to the banquet in the spring the Peries with Miss Dusha's untiring energy made this a most interesting year as shown by their versatility. Just in time for the Waite mass meeting program, the girls blossomed out in their bright yellow cardigans. Their domestic side was demonstrated in baking for the Carnival sale. No one can deny that the Skirt and Sweater Swing at the Secor was the most successful dance of the year—just peek into the treasury! Then the extra-special initiation with ice cream and cookies for the unenthusiastic unfortunates. At a St. Patrick's Day tea, the mothers met the faculty and all enjoyed themselves with gallons of tea and hundreds of cakes. Attending the Repertoire Theater play, "Stage Door," appealed to the literary side as did the regular meeting programs consisting of play reviews, operas, and biographies of actors and actresses. Although at the end of the year the yellow cardigans were faded, the enthusiasm of the Peries was not; and the girls can all look back on a season of fun, happiness, and success. The officers were Dorothy Ansted, President; Sue Schmitt, Vice-President; Jean Tallman, Recording and Ila May Keiser, Corresponding Secretaries; Mary Becker, Treasurer; Ramona Knerr, Censor; and Martha Durfee, Chaplain.

PHILS

They love learning and they love fun, these Phils. Their aims were carried out effectively by Norma Benning, President; Jean Middlebrook, Vice-President; Jane Loxley, Recording Secretary; Dorothy Spraggins, Corresponding Secretary; Mary Curran, Treasurer; Maryellen Lenahan, Chaplain; Jeanne Warwick and Janet Scharer, Censors. After a roast in October, the girls gave a style show and tea in November, at which they entertained their mothers, the women teachers, the Peries, and the Zets. In order that the seniors might have the honor of wearing Phil emblems while they were still Libbey students, they received tiny gold and black pins at a Christmas party. January saw the Phils giving another tea, this time in honor of the chapters at Scott and DeVilbiss. The "Maritime March," which was given in March, was captained by Jean Middlebrook and Dorothy Spraggins, whose committee chose the Toledo Yacht Club as the setting for their dance. Programs followed a theme of biography, with different types of careerists being discussed at each meeting. This most full year, under the guidance of the advisers, Miss Gerdes, Miss Voorheis, and Miss Gosline, was suitably completed with the annual banquet, given in May.

ZETS

Please buy my doughnuts! This will probably always be recognized as the slogan of the Zets; for this year, as in the past, they have held several doughnut sales. The girls put a lot of effort into this work and they were, as always, very successful. This organization has had a full year under the guidance of their officers: Dorothy Trumbull, President; Violet Jacoby, Vice-President; Margie Kerschbaum, Recording Secretary, Mary Jane Cox, Corresponding Secretary; Eldora Harp, Treasurer; Ruth Rupley, Sergeant-at-Arms; Firth Duffey, Chaplain; Donna Partridge and Eloise Green, Censors. The capable Zet advisers were Miss Henderson and Miss DeLisle; and with these leaders, the society discussed modern plays at their meetings. The Zets opened the year with the Scott mass meeting. In October, they held their annual roast. The Mistletoe Mixer came off at the Trilby Log Cabin and was, of course, enjoyed by all who attended. As usual, the Zets made a success of their post office at the Carnival. In March, to entertain the Zets throughout the city, our own girls gave a tea; and last, was a banquet in May.

FORUM AND Q. D.'S

The same old steady orange and blue distinguishes the boys' "lits" of Libbey. The activities of the Forum began at Side Cut with a roast. Later, everyone had a good time at the Terpsichorean Trample held in the New Secor Hotel ballroom with a Hit Parade of current songs as its main feature. As usual they sold hot dogs at the Carnival. And, under the leadership of Fred Metzger, President; Dick Gail, Vice-President; Buel Morley, Secretary; Jack Riddle, Treasurer; Ray Preski, Sergeant-at-Arms; Mr. Weinstock and Mr. Hotchkiss, Advisers, the Forum ended its year with a banquet in the spring. Not to be outdone by the Forum, the Q. D.'s also began their social year with a roast; and in bleak December many were warmed and cheered by their skating party. The Q. D. Shin Dig offered an evening of fun and frolic for everyone, and the most fun of all was the all-day picnic held at the Legion Island. The Q. D.'s were ably guided by Mr. Cony, assisted by the officers: Gordon Hoffman, President; Dale Anderson, Vice-President; Will Tappan,, Secretary; Ben Hartman, Treasurer; and Cleon Hannaford, Sergeant-at-Arms.

COACHES AND

"Chip rah! Chip rah! Rah, rah, Chip!" These yells echoed through Libbey for seven minutes in honor of our beloved football coach, Chip Houser, who after fifteen years of untiring effort and consistent devotion to Libbey, retired to the quiet life of a mathematics teacher. His retirement followed a grand season, for the boys presented him with the 1938 city championship to commemorate his last year as coach of the Libbey Cowboys. His past record shows teams of remarkable sportsmanship and marvelous playing ability produced under expert coaching. At a mass meeting held especially to honor him, Mr. Houser was presented with an engraved watch by Mr. Williams, our principal, and a blanket by the football team. The blanket, blue in color, had fifteen gold stars on it, each representing a year of coaching. In addition, the autograph of each football player and manager was worked into the blanket in gold. With such beautiful trophies and keepsakes, "Chip" can't help remembering the class of '39. Mr. Orwig, formerly the line-coach, was appointed Mr. Houser's successor. We hope that the future years will bring much to him in the form of athletic victories and individual sport achievements. To his newly acquired task, our tall, energetic Mr. Orwig adds that of coaching the varsity basketball team. He has done remarkably well in this work, for during his few years here, the Cowboy quintet has regained its standing and prestige in the city league.

Another factor that has helped to build our championship teams was the outstanding endeavors made during the year by Dr. Ladd and Dr. Young to keep the boys in the finest physical condition possible. Without the excellent services of these loyal friends, our basketball and football teams would have been less sturdy and less efficient. With the co-operation of such an administration and the athletic department, is it any wonder that Libbey is a school of champions?

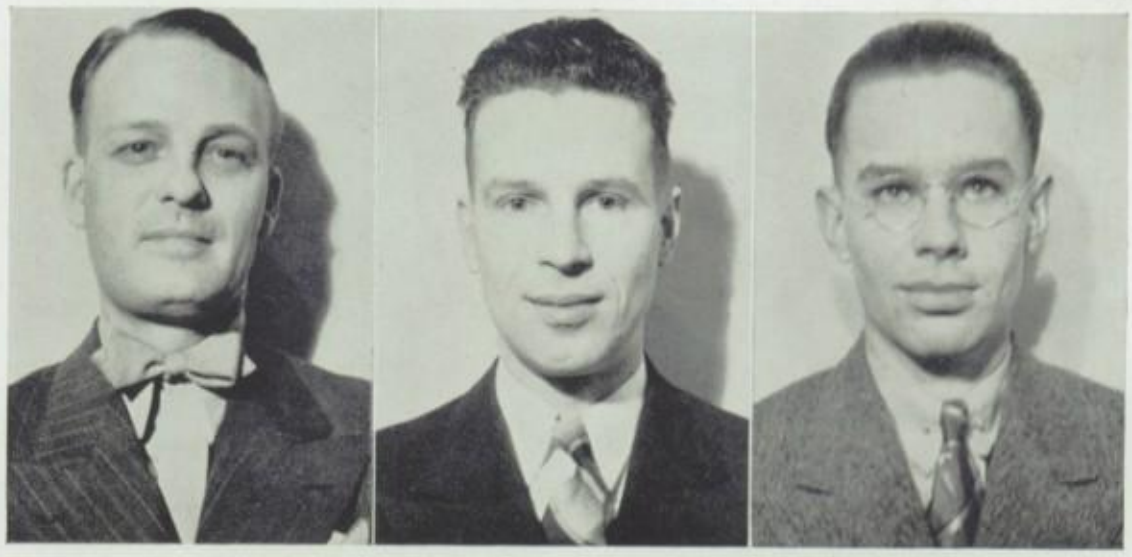
ADMINISTRATION



Charles Martin Orville Henrion Herbert Ramsdell

Director of Athletics, is our capable, clear-headed Mr. Martin. In addition to the important task of arranging the complete athletic program of the year, he took care of all advertising for games, without which we would not fill the stadium and gym. The student admissions to athletic contests, and activities tickets were also well taken care of by Mr. Martin. Of course, the work of Mr. Henrion and Mr. Ramsdell is a great help to the smooth running of our athletic department. Mr. Henrion was in charge of ticket sales, in addition to being the financial secretary and bookkeeper. Managing the field house and all athletic equipment was Herbert Ramsdell under whose supervision were the various managers.

Unsung heroes! Championships come and go, but men like Bill Everhart, "Bus" Harding, Al Jeffery, "Chuck" Robinson, "Chuck" Martin, Orville Henrion, and "Herb" Ramsdell don't usually get medals pinned on their chests for it. They are the men in the background who are responsible for work that takes a lot of time, which must be done, but which many people take for granted. Mr. Everhart, for example, had his hands full with the cross-country team, the track team, and the freshman basketball squad. Mr. Harding did all the work of training the champ backfield of our varsity football team. His work, and that of Mr. Everhart, turned out such a star fullback as Dick Huston. Mr. Jeffery and Mr. Robinson both taught boys' gym classes during the day, but afterward, they lent their efforts and knowledge to the coaching of the varsity and reserve football teams. Mr. Jeffery, also instructing the boys in the form of dribbling, passing, and "sinking it", successfully coached a reserve basketball team which won the city reserve basketball championship. The varsity of next year will depend upon these reserves; therefore, "Jeff" can say he really trained the varsity. We take this opportunity to say "Good work!" to all the members of the administrative staff.

VARSITY

"Victory! Victory! Is our cry!" might have been heard resounding through the stands of DeVilbiss from the side of the Libbeyites. Indeed, our boys furnished not only the spectators with many a thrill but also our beloved coach, Chip Houser, with a farewell that everyone will remember. From the kickoff in the Cleveland Central game to the final shooting of the gun in that combat with the Tigers, we all had hopes of possessing a championship team. In the fall of 1938, our boys opened the season of football for Libbey with a 32 to 0 victory over Cleveland Central High School. Much to the surprise of the coaches and the team, this out-of-town group proved to be composed of mostly colored boys, who displayed very fine sportsmanship. Our first opponent in the City Tournament last season was Woodward. It was really in this game that Huston made his first spectacular impression upon the Toledo fans, bringing about a 26 to 12 victory. But that Central game! This struggle, which took place in our stadium, is, indeed, unforgettable; for after four exciting quarters of play, the two persistent teams ended with a 7 to 7 tie. Until the fourth quarter the Fighting Irish led with a 7 to 0 score over our boys. After trying many times to put the ball across Central's goal line, "Huey", like a flash of lightning, skirted Central's end for Libbey's much-needed touchdown. Then the educated toe of Georgia converted the point necessary to tie the score. It was this game that blasted Central's hopes of being City Champs. After furnishing a tie with Central, the Cowboys then decided upon a "track meet" affair with Montpelier, which resulted in a 70 to 6 victory for the Libbeyites. Huston, with the fine blocking of the other players, surely played an important part in running up those 70 points. Thus far, Libbey had been boastful of the fact that we hadn't lost a game. And though we lost our next game with Scott, this dramatic struggle against those Collingwood Avenue Bull Dogs furnished the twelve thousand electrified spectators with some football that most of them will never forget. According to newspaper reporters, "There, indeed, was brilliant drama and football that lifted itself far above the schoolboy level." The Cowboys having made the first two touchdowns, we had great hopes of regaining the "Little Brown Jug", but our hopes were thwarted with a 28 to 18 victory for Scott. What a thrill to see Hoover and Huston leading their respective teams in the battle! Everyone will agree that this game was one of the highlights of the season, for seldom do two such superior high school teams clash. From the opening whistle to the final shooting of the gun, no one knew just what the exact outcome of the game would be. After our team had recuperated from their hard-hitting "scrap" with the Bull Dogs, they then took a trip to East Chicago, where they met a club of big, rugged fellows from the Chicago Roosevelt High School. According to reports, this game was no "cinch", but our boys managed to eke out a 26 to 14 victory over the Chicago Rough Riders. Once again Libbey's famous Huston starred as he added three more touchdowns to his ever-growing total. After returning from Chicago, the team made another journey, this one being to Defiance. Against this team, the Cowboys scored early in the fourth quarter and showed their "fight" that was necessary for winning the championship. In spite of the fact that Defiance was playing in its own stadium, our boys took the out-of-towners in a 7 to 0 victory. Very soon after, it was time for the team to meet the Indians from across the Maumee. The Cowboys, playing the part of the good host, donned some old red shirts the firemen had left around the lockers to keep the Libbey gold from clashing with the Waite gold. Although Waite did outpower Libbey in every respect, the Cowboys managed an 18 to 14 victory over those rugged East Siders. Huston certainly put the spectators on the edge of their seats, as he ran ninety-five yards for the first touchdown of the game. With the score standing 14 to 12 in Waite's favor, "Huey" once again came to the top with a fifty-yard run to defeat Waite by one touchdown. Last but not least (by all means!) was that famous game with the DeVilbiss Tigers. Entering an icy and unfamiliar field isn't always the easiest thing to do, but our Cowboys showed eight thousand fans how they could ride those Tigers—ice or no ice. With Georgia getting off some beautiful punts and Huston, Hannaford, and Anderson making the touchdowns, we defeated the West Siders with a 20 to 7 victory. Incidentally, the touchdowns of both teams were scored in the second quarter. DeVilbiss scored first, but Libbey repeated with such rapidity that the Cowboys rushed the Tigers off their feet. The second half was by no means a standstill, each team trying in vain to score. But how the Libbeyites went wild when it was announced that Waite had beaten Scott, thus giving the Libbeyites the City Championship! What a sight—with the grinning gridders below forgetting that they were playing a game and the mob above going wild! Thus, the season closed with a championship team for the school and a glorious finale for our retiring coach. We, indeed, wish to congratulate the two other varsity coaches, Bill Orwig, for his splendid work in coaching the line, and Bus Harding, for devoting so much time to the backfield. for our worthy instructors, Libbey certainly would not have come out on top. The following members of our successful team, which has won seven games, tied one, and lost one, received their letter awards: Dick Huston, Bob Enyeart, Lynn Georgia, Norman Zanter, Don Tibbits, Ray Krall, Martin Topolski, Edward Floering, Harry Perrine, Dick Trumbull, Edward Weber, Melven Mor, Alexander Richmond, Norbert Snyder, Ray Preski, Charles Phillips, Warren Schmakel, Dale Anderson, Dicstetter, Dalton Smithy, and Bill Tappen were presented Charles Dybala, Morris Esmond, Joe Douglas, Bland Kerrstetter, Dalton Smithy, and Bill Tappan were presented with A-L-A Awards. Libbey also made a very good showing in the All-City team, with Huston, full-back, and Schmakel, guard, making the first team, and Snyder and Perrine making the second. Many of our boys also received honorable mention. Very proud are we to say that Libbey scored splendid offense. Our captain, Dale Anderson, should also be complimented for his wonderful work. Next year, our promising junior, Lynn Georgia, will take "Andy's" place. As for Libbey's famous "Flash" Huston, he not only led our team to seven victories, but also was the high scorer of the city, making 121 points, thus ranking fourth highest in the state. Long will our 1938 football team remain in the minds of the thousands of spectators who attended the games. Of course, this victory is the result of many hard hours of practice on the part of both the boys and the coaches. May we offer sincere congratulations to the players, on returning with a championship team; and may Coach Houser look back on this past season as one of the best years of his career.

It's a toss-up! Then the sound of a whistle, a cheer from the crowd, the sudden stillness of the night wind as it hits one's face while leaving the last game, all this to remind one of the victories and losses that have gone to make up another year of athletic competition in varsity basketball at Libbey. The marvelous ability, work, and fighting spirit displayed by the boys on the varsity line make them worthy of the Libbey "L". The first two games proved a good start, for the boys "trimmed" Fremont Ross and Tiffin Junior Order 37-30 and 16-8 respectively. Then came the first defeat of the season with our boys bowing to a large St. Joseph quintet 22-19 on the latter's floor. Libbey's defense tightened so intensely that the strong Xenia team couldn't manage to get through and the scoreboard showed a 30-24 Cowboy victory. Kenton and Waite then turned up Libbey with 31-19 and 31-28 scores. We finally opened up in the city tournament with DeVilbiss, when a hard-fought game brought a victory of one point 27-26 over the Tigers. A losing streak of three games pulled us down in the city standings when we lost to Woodward, Macomber and Central, 20-19, 34-24, and 39-27. After these defeats the cowboys turned in a victory over the Scott Bulldogs 33-25, which showed that the boys were still in there with all they had. The loss to DeVilbiss 43-32 stirred their fighting spirit and they finally came into their own with four top scores. Hard fighting teams such as Woodward, Macomber, and Central fell under the onslaught of the mighty Libbey Cowboys. A score of 20-19 was run up in the game with the Polar Bears while the Macomber Craftsmen were tumbled to 37-33. The Scott game, which was overtime, proved Libbey a victor with 23-22 points marked. The Central game proved to be the outstanding one of the season for our quintet for they played a most brilliant game to upset a team which was headed for the championship. The season closed with two losses handed out by Waite and Port Huron 41-38 and 22-21. The tournament at Toledo University proved Libbey to be better in play than Whitmer and Rossford, but Central, after the trouncing it got at our hands, came back viciously to pocket ten points more then we, 38-28. Robert Stewart was high scorer of the season with 125 points collected throughout the season. He and Gordon Hoffman, honorary captain of the team, received award trophies from Libbey's patron, Doctor Williams.

VARSITY AND RESERVE FOOTBALL

Turning up in second place, the reserve football team had a successful year. Opening the season with Tiffin, our boys defeated their opponent 12-6. The next game was a scoreless tie with Central. The boys defeated the next four teams with the following scores: Woodward, 12-7; DeVilbiss, 26-0; Scott, 37-0; and Napoleon, 12-0. The only game our reserves lost was the battle with the Waite Reserve City Champs, 13-6. Our boys finished the season with a 21-6 victory over Rossford. Coaches Jeffery and Robinson have devoted much time to the betterment of the team. Such success throughout our athletic meets should also be accredited to our four cheerleaders Harry Ball, Roger Tornow, Melvin Papenfus, and Ed Chlebowski, who have led the school yells and constantly lent their enthusiasm and pep to the student body and cheered the team on to numerous victories.

BOWLERS

Under the supervision of Bill Everhart, the freshman basketball team, among whom Schoonover, Weber, Furry, and Lawson received awards, fought hard against the other high schools. Coached by "Jeff", the varsity "L" men, who were Quenton, Partelheim, Bogusz, Youngs, Mor, Bowes, Bracht, Fenstemaker, D. Maciejewski, W. Maciejewski, Proschek, Seitz, Rudolph, Floering, and Fenton won six of their ten games played. As for Libbey's "rolling" bowlers, directed by Mr. Plough, the various teams, composed of Iwinski, Brezinski, Mor, Sobiesczanski, Davenport, Baker, Mault, Wallington, Noel, Pockmire, Colwell, Jeager, Baker, Muszynski, Domalski, Jeager, Wallace, and Losek, took part in both American and National leagues.

TRACK AND GOLF

On your mark, get set, go! Muscular bodies gliding over hill and dale represented Libbey's track and cross-country teams as they "worked out" in Ottawa Park. Mr. Everhart, the track coach, could be seen driving along in a car encouraging the boys over the rough spots. The scores show that Libbey came out on top in the Northwestern Ohio District Meet, while in a state meet, Libbey placed eleventh. During cross-country competition, the Cowboys captured fifth to eighth place inclusive. Toward the end of the year, the track team sponsored a skating party to raise funds with which they could purchase new track shoes. Another sport where Libbey represented itself well was golf in which under the direction of Coach Spackey, the golfers not only won the city championship, but placed first in the district and fifth in the state meet.

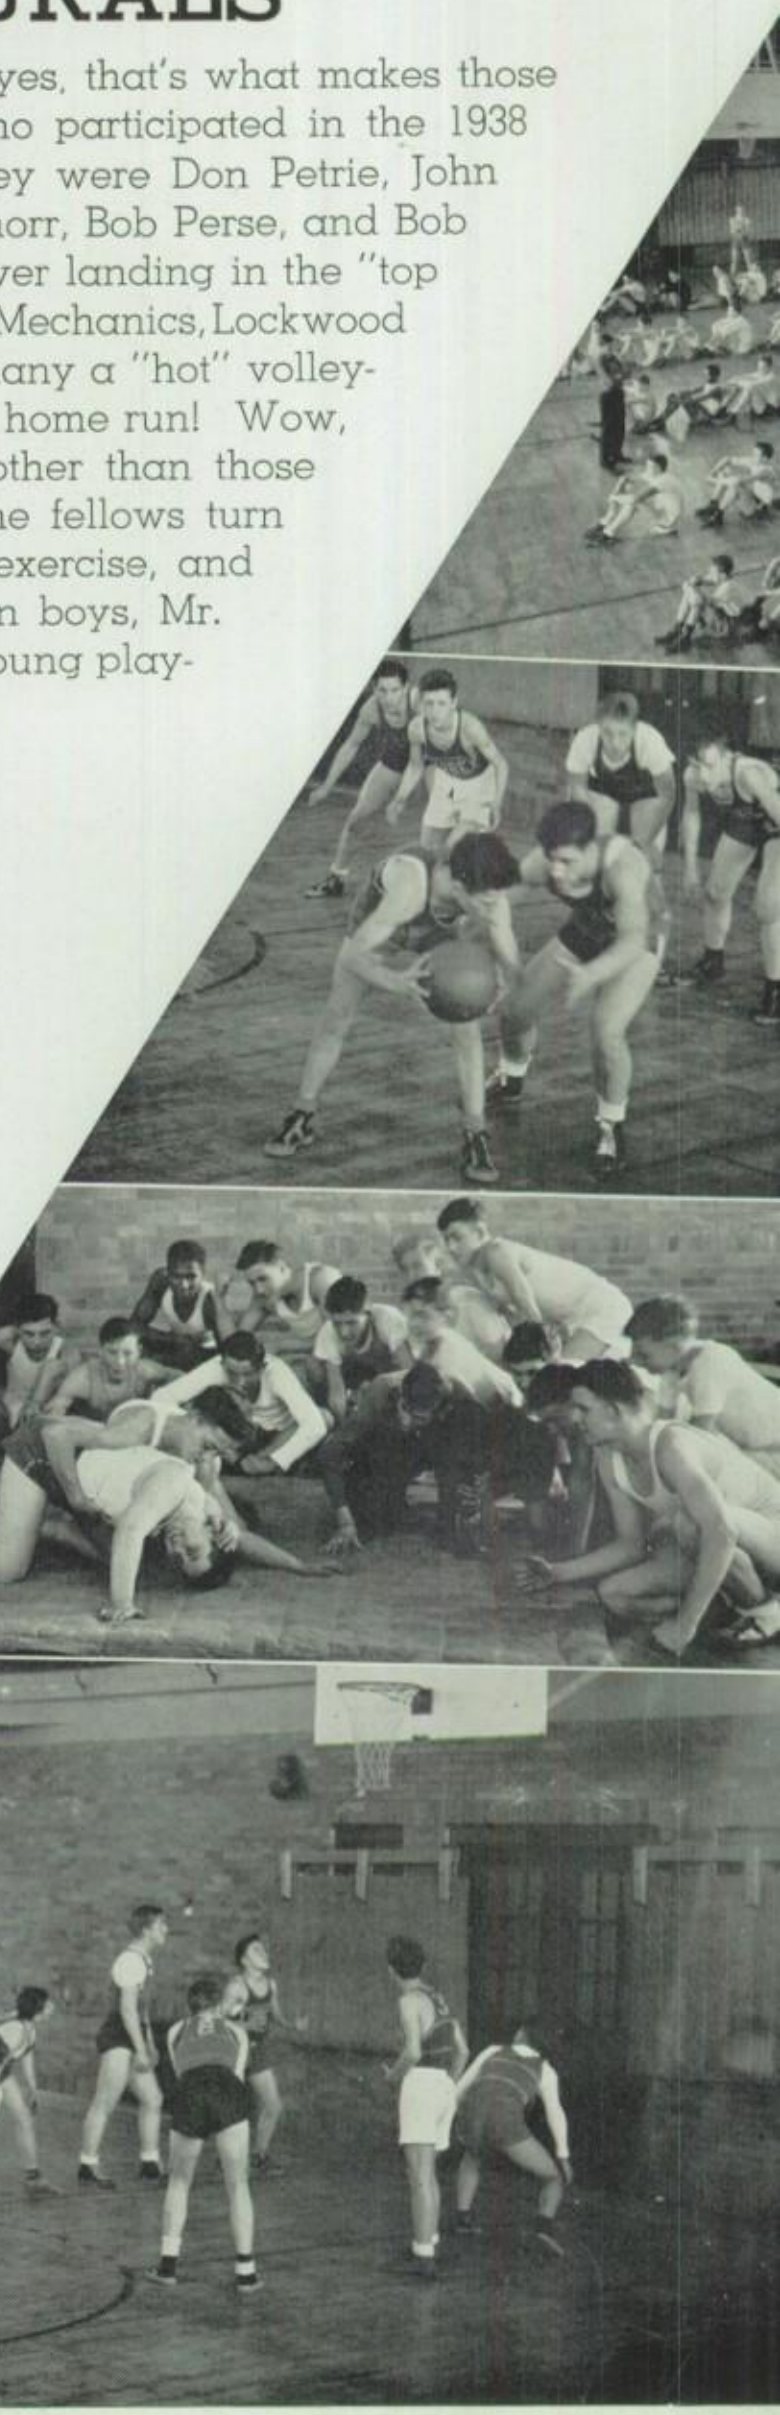
GOLFERS

BOY'S INTRAMURALS

Volley-ball, tennis, soft ball, basketball, and ping-pong — yes, that's what makes those big, husky fellows (or is it spinach?) The tennis players who participated in the 1938 elimination tournament under the supervision of Mr. Spackey were Don Petrie, John Perry, Howard Sommers, Dick Wolkins, Dick Hughs, John Knorr, Bob Perse, and Bob Weaver. These boys furnished keen competition, with Weaver landing in the "top notch" and Perry being runner-up. The Fast Five, Dipman Mechanics, Lockwood Flashes, Q. D.'s Forum, and the Biology Five battled in many a "hot" volley-ball game, each team fighting for the championship. It's a home run! Wow, can those boys play baseball! What boys? Why none other than those hefty players of "Jeff" and "Chuck" Robinson. Many of the fellows turn out after school for this soft ball league. As the fresh air, exercise, and relaxation from studies does much to build up our freshmen boys, Mr. Everhart has organized a basketball league to give these young play-



(1) Pretty quiet for a boys' gym class! Well, they must relax sometime.

(2) He has the ball now, but how long will he keep it? That's what makes basketball so interesting.

(3) He's down! or is he? Excitement is running high and with all those referees a final decision is going to be hard to make.

(4) Will it go through the basket? Both teams are hoping, but not for the same thing.

There'll be no cheating with all these umpires.

BOY'S INTRAMURALS

ers as much experience as possible. The Frosh Five, Gas House Gang, Gladiators, Freshmen, Rattlers, Comets, Orioles, Streaks, Strikers, and Pirates have shown much friendly rivalry in their various games. The Freshmen, composed of Warren Schoonover, Marvin Pasch, Willard Slicker, Raymond Floering, Grant Pinney, Bob Houser, Jack Harris, and Bob Julius, showed the other teams how to "land" in first place. The Gladiators, Comets, and Pirates took second, third, and fourth places respectively. In addition to these team sports, many of the boys have participated during the past year in table tennis tournaments. Thus, our athletic department enables many of the boys to take part in various sports that they otherwise would not be able to do. By indulging in such activities, they are building strong, healthy bodies, which are necessary for success in the future. For such reasons, the Libbey Athletic department is, indeed, greatly appreciated.

(1) What is this boy watching? Basketball, volleyball, or track practice.

(2) Make that serve a good one! You don't want the other team to win, do you?

(3) A left! a right! an uppercut! Watch out for his solar-plexus!

(4) With a big ball like that, everyone should be able to get his hand on it. No wonder it's called giant volleyball!

Pole-vaulting is the first step to aeronautics.

GIRL'S INTRAMURALS

At the sound of excited female voices arising from the gym, we realize that these "sports-loving-gals" of the gym classes are out for the team again tonight. By participating in these after-school activities, the girls are not only furnished with good, wholesome entertainment, but they, indeed, are building up something for the future — strong and healthy bodies. Sports cause one to wax strong both mentally and physically by teaching the participants how to get along harmoniously and by developing the muscles. Under the excellent supervision of Katherine Maher and Nettie Belle Clayton, the girls play volley-ball, baseball, soccer, hockey, and basket-ball. For these various activities, the girls have divided up into different teams; thus we have intramural rivalries. In the basketball tournament, the competition was very keen, with the Lucky 8, composed of Isabell Lorenz, Emily Mocek, Eleanor Palecki, Betty Harrison, Mary Helen

(1) Well, Dorothy, how does it feel to be a wheel-barrow?

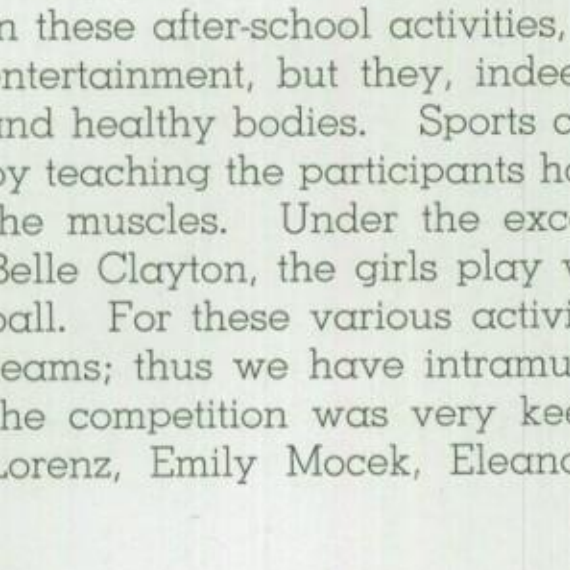
(2) Feet in the air and hands on the ground! It may be reverse procedure for you, but it's fun for the girls!

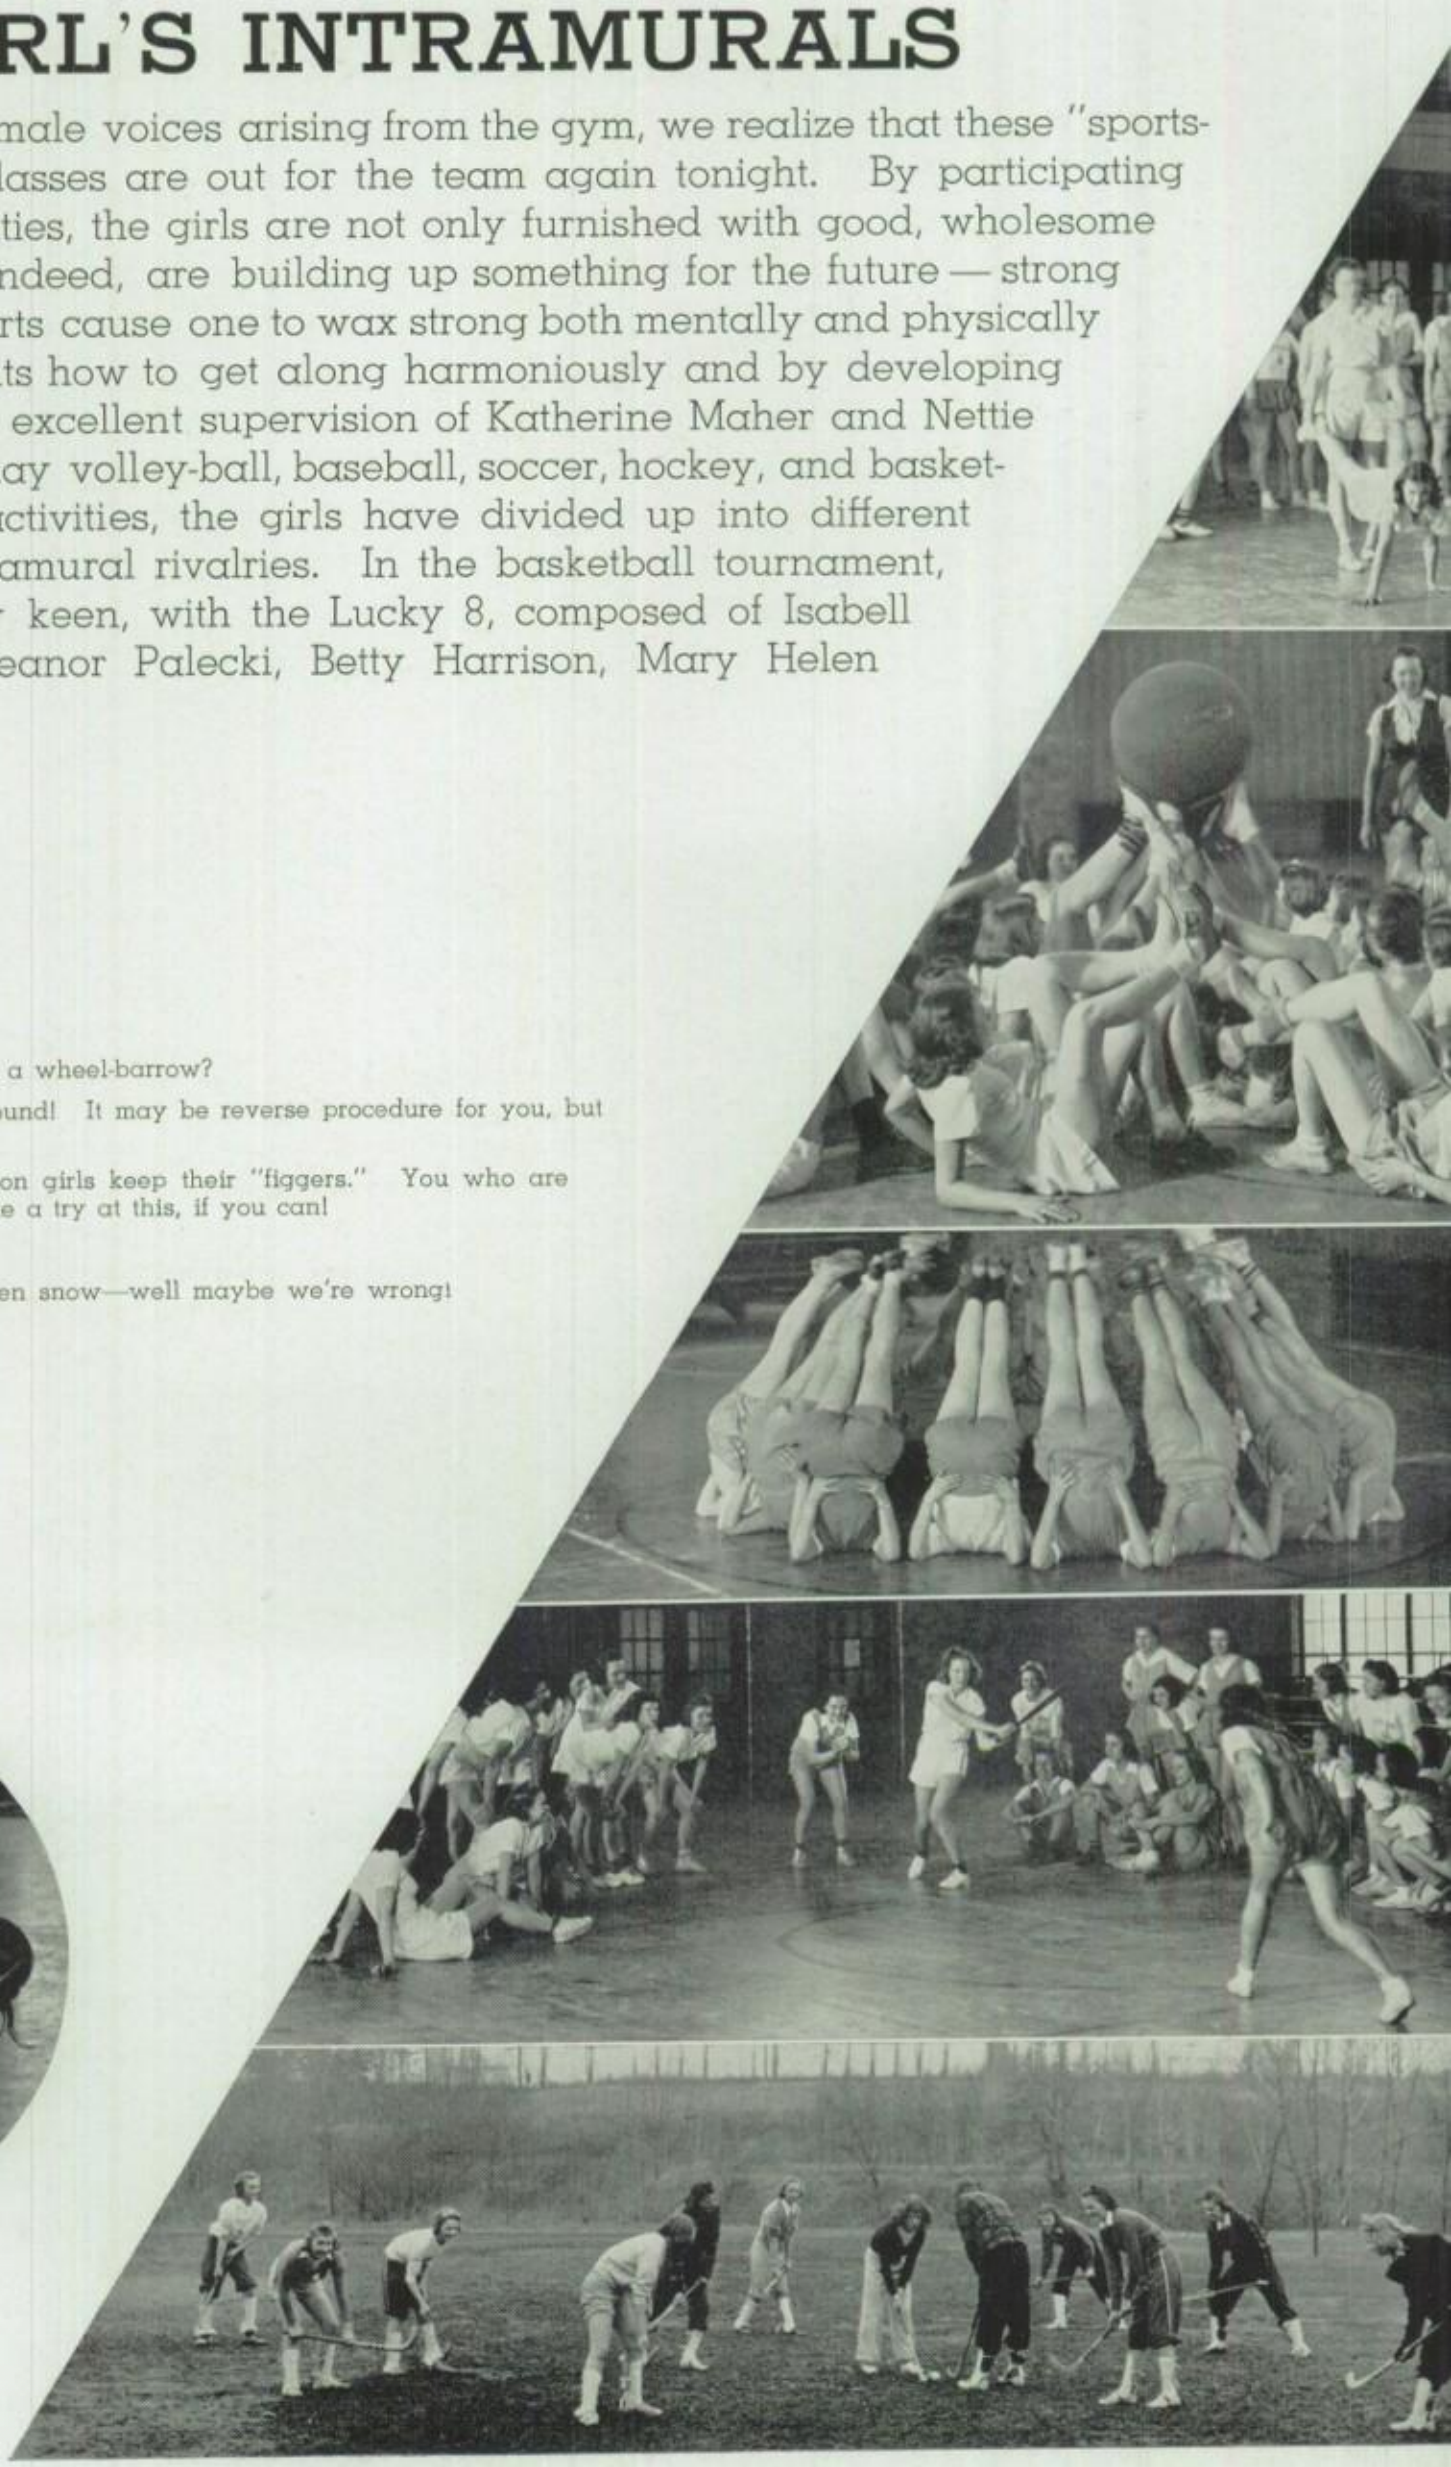
(3) So that's how the Athletic Association girls keep their "figgers." You who are sensitive on that point should take a try at this, if you can!

(4) Hit it Emily! Don't strike out, now!

(5) Hockey without ice, ice-skates, or even snow—well maybe we're wrong!

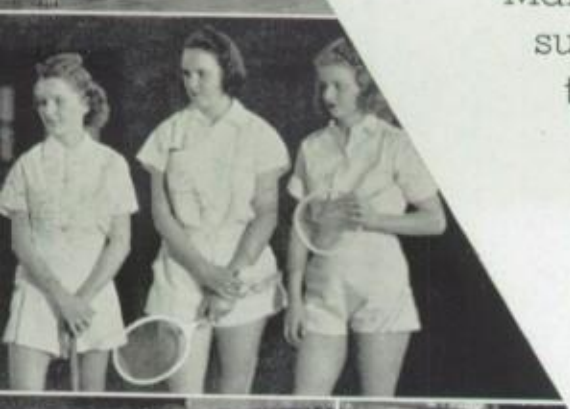
Mary Dotson, Betty Jo Wickerham





GIRL'S INTRAMURALS

Harrison, Ruby Kruse, Dorothy Woods, and Virginia Bollenbacher, taking the top place. The Sophistocats, who were headed by Betty Baker, and who were Joyce Schlaff, Juanita Lee, Betty Taylor, Pearl Anderson, Betty Wallis, Gertrude Parker, and Velma Langley came in second. Phyliss Bell, Carol Venable, Marian Corwin, Betty Kilding, Joan Simmons, Lucy Holliger, Betty Welch, Jeanette Treter, and Jane Steiger, who called themselves the Chuckovits team, gained third place, with Marian Corwin being their captain. The Varsity 8, managed by Ruth Schultz and headed by Naomi Malott and Pauline Studer, took fourth place. This team was composed of Louise Schmakel, Virginia Ashford, Margaret Meyer, Ruth Schultz, Naomi Malott, Jane Ramsdell, Pauline Studer, and Geraldine Kransy. Through such activities, the girls learn to co-operate for the good of the group and to get along better with other girls.



(1) Hard work, Jeannette? Just think how swell it'll be if you win!

(2) When your game is over, that's the time to watch others play. At any rate that's what Polly, Has-sy, and Issy seem to think.

(3) The girl with the longest reach wins every time!

(4 Throw it up, Betty. Let's see whether Donna or Bonnie can leap the higher.

(5) More hockey and still no ice! Say, are you girls trying to fool us?

(6) We were told that this was a dance but, we don't know. What do you think it is?

Theresa Cousino, Ruth Snyder, Joyce Menke, Mildred Moreland
